Press Release

The counselling for several subjects for the PG courses is over. However there are some seats still vacant in the self financed courses. Those candidates who have applied in other courses where the counselling is over and seats are full but they were denied admission have another opportunity to apply for these self financed courses. Such candidates should check their eligibility for these subjects and apply directly to the concerned Head of Departments or Course coordinators on plain paper and a copy of their online application form latest by July 27, 2016.

Admission to these self financed courses will be carried out once the process of first round of PG counselling is complete. This opportunity will be given only to those candidates who have applied for transfer of their candidature. All such candidates would have to deposit the amount for the application form along with the admission fees. All admissions would be done on the basis of merit. Details of self financed courses where counselling have taken place till July 22, 2016 and there are seats vacant are given below
