REGIONAL RESOURCE AND TRAINING CENTRES

Demand reduction means prevention, treatment, rehabilitation and all other efforts that help end the craving and desire for drugs. Drug related problems cannot be tackled by use of force or prohibitive steps, legal or otherwise but by positive life-affirming measures on force or prohibitive measures, legal or otherwise, but must be a positive, life-affirming campaign too. People must be led, taught, convinced and supported so that they can avoid the allure of drugs and draw emotional nourishment from wholesome activities. To that end many people will also require material resource and real-life opportunities they never had before.

The best long-term strategy for reducing demand lies with:

- ◆ creating more satisfying life conditions for as many people as possible, especially the disadvantaged;
- ◆ educating everyone, especially the young, about the dangers of drugs, and just as importantly, teaching healthy alternatives to drug use;
- ◆ providing effective rehabilitation for people who become addicted and helping them become productive citizens, positive role models, and active supporters of demand reduction efforts.

Keeping the above in view, it is obvious that any effort in this direction requires a sustained, committed and long-term intervention with a flexible and innovative approach. The Government of India has been, for the last 15 years, promoting and supporting culture-specific, need oriented and localized community based interventions and initiatives through Non Governmental Organizations (NGOs).

It is, however, realized that effective and appropriate service delivery through the NGOs, while on the one hand requires continuous and regular professional development of the service providers in inculcating skills pertaining to newer strategies for dealing with addiction, on the other, documentation of the implementation of the programmes, monitoring of the changes in the profile of the drug abuse scenario and technical support to be able to respond to the changing situations, needs to be taken care of. In a country like India, with diverse physical, social and cultural features, it is necessary that the adopted strategy takes into account the regional needs and local field realities in undertaking activities related to advocacy, research, monitoring and training.

In order to meet the regional requirements and aspirations, the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, in collaboration with UNODC and ILO, has evolved a functional structural mechanism.

The Ministry has established National Centre for Drug Abuse Prevention (NCDAP) at New Delhi, to serve as an apex body for training, research and documentation in the field of alcohol and drug demand reduction. It was set up in NISD in 1998 with the following objectives:

- Raising the competency standards of the functionaries/ personnel working in De-addiction centres and other related sectors.

- Invigorating efforts for preventing or minimizing any anticipated or consequent harm related to Drug Abuse in clients and in the community.
 - Standardization of care in Drug Abuse Prevention.
 - Updating information and creating a database on extent and pattern of Drug Abuse and its various interventions at local, regional, national and international levels.
 - Developing standards of monitoring systems of various interventions.

The Regional Resource and Training Centres, as the name suggests, have been established essentially for the devolution of the mandate of NCDAP at the regional level. They would, as representatives their region undertake the following activities:

- ◆ Training of service providers.
- ◆ Documentation of programmes/results.
- ◆ Advocacy, research and monitoring.
- ◆ Technical support to NGOs, CBOs and Enterprises.
- ◆ Strengthening the rehabilitation of the addicts.

The NGOs, all over the country, working in the field of alcohol and drug demand reduction are expected to liaison with the National Centre of Drug Abuse Prevention, NISD, New Delhi and the respective Regional Resource and Training Centre for required technical assistance and manpower development.
