Cleanliness is next to Godliness, and the cleanliness, hygiene and sanitation in day to day life is very vital to lead a healthy life. Cleanliness is the precautions and prevention to keep away diseases from spreading to an individual or the society. It is necessary for all of us to keep our self and our surrounding clean as it is said the healthy body gives healthy mind. Keeping our environment clean and green is our moral responsibility as human beings.

There is a need to spread and increase awareness in the society and also ensure cleanliness all around us. We need to take baby steps to accomplish this objective. NCC as a force has a big role to play by inculcating awareness amongst cadets and subsequently taking initiative from time to time by conducting social service activities for educating the masses by fostering these values.

Today cleanliness drive in the University of Lucknow was organised under the aegis of Mission Shakti (An initiative of Government of U.P.). Prof. Madhurima Lall, Convener of Mission Shakti, University of Lucknow was the motivating source behind it. For the smooth conduct of cleanliness drive by senior wing girl cadets of 63 UP BN NCC, University of Lucknow organized a drive under the guidance of Associate NCC Officer Capt (Dr) Kiran Lata Dangwal.

Capt (Dr) Kiran Lata Dangwal as a Coordinator addressed the cadets by giving a valuable information on cleanliness and the benefits in the long run. She gave special emphasis on the contribution and voluntary participation expected from youth of today and also from each member of society towards our nation. All the girls cadets put in their best and took active participation with full zeal and enthusiasm in the cleanliness drive in Shivaji ground, University of Lucknow.

The ground was very neatly cleaned which motivated and inspired other passer by students also to participate actively.
